

International Mentors

“Tell me and I forget, teach me and I may remember, involve me and I learn.”

Building up the ICT community of skills and talent in Africa is one of Esoko's core missions. We have always attracted smart, curious and committed professionals to come to Accra and work with the team developing their skills. This has included Android developers from Australia, software engineers from the US and Italy, researchers from New York and more. We provide a fun and engaging, but professional and demanding environment for visitors to come and share their passion, interests and skills with one of Africa's most talented young development teams. The program offers accommodation, travel and monthly allowance. The office and guesthouse are just five minutes away from each other in a comfortable and quiet part of Accra. If you're interested then please email us mentors@esoko.com with the following information:

- Your particular area of interest and expertise
- Your qualifications
- Your work experience
- Your availability
- Your objectives for joining Esoko team

Objective of the program - To improve knowledge & skills in the field of sales, technology, product development, client services.

If you are an expert in your domain and would like to share the knowledge and groom young minds of Africa please apply here. You should be available in Accra or Nairobi for at least a year.
